TRADING SPACES -

JED Oil, a Calgary-based oil company, is finalizing plans to move its head office from this downtown skyscraper to the old county building in Didsbury.

Boomtown: Big-city oil company to call Didsbury home

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

A Calgary oil company is packing up its downtown office tower space and moving to Didsbury.

JED oil, which is currently located on the 26th floor of the Rogers skyscraper on 4th Ave. Calgary, will set up its headquarters in the old Mountain View County building on 15th Ave. Didsbury as early as next month.

The shift is welcomed by Town officials who worry about Didsbury becoming a bedroom community to a growing number of commuters. It will bring people and business into the town, rather than out.

"This is an exciting precedent," said Mayor Dorothy Moore.

"We would love to have others follow."

Moore said the move makes a lot of good sense.

"We also have five oil and gas plants within commuting distance...and it's so much less expensive out here," she said.

JED's move comes on the heels of the release of its third quarter results in November, which show major losses.

Former CEO and current chairman Reg Greenslade blames a volatile natural gas market and the failure of the company's development property in Pinedale, Wyoming to generate expected results for the losses.

He said the amount of capital deployed in Pinedale is approximately $12 million.

In an effort to pick up the pieces, JED is undergoing an intense refocus and cutting administration costs.

"We would love to have others follow."

MAYOR DOROTHY MOORE

That includes moving to a less expensive office space, and selling off millions of dollars worth of assets, including the company airplane.

"We are very fortunate to have a solid asset base within our company," Greenslade said in a conference call.

Major changes include the recent resignations of both the company's president and chief financial officer.

Both positions have since been filled and Greenslade said he's confident JED has the management and staffing to move the company forward.

Current CEO Tom Jacobsen said the company will take a more "hands on" approach as it continues to develop existing properties as well as pursue new, low-risk opportunities.

"We will pursue all types of opportunities, probably more on the oil side than the gas, just due to the quicker ability to put it on production and less risk in marketing," he said.

Meanwhile, Didsbury Town council will hold a public meeting tonight to finalize the sale of the county building to JED oil.

Besides bringing big business to Didsbury, JED's move will mean the old county building, which has sat vacant for over a year, will now be taxable.

"It wasn't taxable before so this is a good thing," said Moore.

Tonight's public meeting is scheduled for 6 p.m. in council chambers.

Didsbury teen wounded in farmhouse shooting

BY DAN SINGLETON
AND JODI STYNER
MVG Staff

A 14-year-old Didsbury boy was shot and wounded on a rural property about seven kilometres southwest of Didsbury on the afternoon of Tuesday, Jan. 2.

The boy, who has not been named because of his age, was taken to the Children's Hospital in Calgary with a single, non-life threatening gunshot wound to his upper leg shortly after 4 p.m., according to Didsbury RCMP Sgt. Kevin O'Dwyer.

"The bullet was removed and the last word I heard, he's doing well," he said.

"The bullet was removed and the last word I heard, he's doing well."

KEVIN O'DWYER
Didsbury RCMP Sgt.

On the scene, O'Dwyer said although police had not ruled out foul play, the shooting may have been accidental.

In a followup interview Friday he said, "we're still investigating it, but we still believe that it is an accidental shooting."

Three youth, all 14 years of age, were involved, and all have been questioned by police.

The wounded boy is not a resident of the property and is not related to the property owner, according to RCMP.

O'Dwyer said he hasn't received confirmation on what type of gun was involved, but he did say police have seized a rifle from inside the home.

Didsbury fire, RCMP and EMS attended the scene.

The investigation is continuing.

Newcomers Club helps ease transition

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

New Didsbury residents interested in meeting people and finding out what the Town has to offer are encouraged to stop into the Neighborhood Place office for coffee Tuesday afternoons.

Neighbourhood Place coordinator Nicole Aasen said since opening the office, she's seen more and more of a demand for a program like this.

"I'm finding that there are so many people who are moving to Didsbury who have no family here, who don't know anyone, and to spend their time in the community." The idea is similar to

NICOLE AASEN
Neighbourhood Place coordinator

they don't know how to get connected with the community," said Aasen.

"Even as far as making friends, learning what kinds of services are available to them, and what options there are for ways that of existing programs that bring new moms together with other new moms, but it is for any new resident.

"I think what happens a lot of the time is new residents feel so alone and so isolated and think that they're the only ones who feel like that, when really there are so many people that are feeling that way," said Aasen.

This program offers a casual forum to ease the transition into a new community.

"People can come and just have coffee and hopefully get to know other people who are in the same type of position that they're in and maybe form some friendships," said Aasen.

The Newcomers Club will meet every Tuesday, from 1:30-3 p.m., starting Jan. 23 at the Neighbourhood Place office in the 17th Ave mall.

Wild horse killings make 16 in three years

Reward offered for information

BY DAN SINGLETON
For the Review

A $2,000 reward is being offered by the Olds-based Wild Horses of Alberta Society, a group that monitors wild horses in Alberta, for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible for killing three horses west of Sundre, say officials.

Alberta Sustainable Resource Development (SRD) is also asking for public tips.

The horses, two adults and a colt, were found about 20 metres off an oil-site roadway on Crown land southwest of Bearberry on Jan. 1, said Rick Smee, a forest officer at the Sundre SRD office.

Smee believes the animals had been shot about 10 days before being found.

"We sure don't want to see them shot and left to waste out there," said Smee.

It is illegal under the Criminal Code to shoot the animals.

There are between 150 and 200 feral horses west of Sundre. The animals are likely decedents of horses used in logging operations generations ago, according to Smee.

The horses are not considered wildlife or livestock, falling under the authority of the lands division of SRD.

The dead horses were discovered by Bob Henderson, president of the Wild Horses of Alberta Society.

"I was out in the area taking pictures when I came across them," said Henderson.

There was a bullet hole in the skull of one of the horses, he said.

There have been 16 wild horses shot and left in the same general area over the past three years, he said.

"I can't comprehend why anyone would just want to shoot them and just leave them," he said. "The killings all happened at the same time of the year."

Initially a $500 reward was offered by the Wild Horses of Alberta Society, but that has been upped to $2,000.

Alberta Sustainable Resource Development says the horses are feral.

Henderson disagrees, saying they are wild.

Anyone with information about the shootings is being asked to call Sundre Ranger Station at 1-403-638-3805.

ON THE HUNT - Sundre forest officer Rick Smee is interviewed by CTV in an effort to garner tips about a shooting incident that left three horses dead near Sundre. A total of 16 of the area's wild horses have been killed over the last few years and The Wild Horse Society of Alberta wants to know why.

EDITORIAL & OPINION

Warming up to change

With 2007 predicted to be the warmest year on record, anyone who still thinks global warming is some sort of tree hugging hoax is clearly out to lunch.

Just take a look at oil investors' reactions last week to sell off in the wake of warm winter temperatures; a move that resulted in a big market plunge.

The new year started with crude prices falling $2.73 and a suggestion that Alberta's boom may soon level off.

Then there's the recent suggestion by the U.S. government (typically skeptical of human impact on the environment) that polar bears be placed on the endangered species list because - yes - global warming is depleting their arctic habitat and making food harder to get.

Or wacky weather patterns that have people in typically warm places, like Arizona, scratching their heads as they pick up a snow shovel for the first time in their lives. Some may see these freak snowstorms as proof against global warming, but weird weather phenomena are just the opposite; they are proof positive that something is off-kilter.

Climate change is happening and it's getting worse. So much worse that you, as only one person, have very little ability to change it, right?

Wrong.

Now, I would be lying if I said I never take too-long showers or ever left my car idling outside the bank. But I am working on changing my habits and making smarter choices.

I realize that I don't have to check off everything on the long list of Things We Can All Do To Be More Environmentally Friendly today. That's enough to make anyone balk at taking action.

But we can all concentrate on one or two little things each and honestly, it's time the "but I'm just one person" excuse be laid to rest.

A change could be as simple as turning off the water tap when brushing your teeth.

I've vowed not to idle my car unless it's -30C and there's a two inch layer of ice on my window, and even then it doesn't need to sit there for 30 minutes.

And rather than buying a whole bunch of little water bottles that take a lot of energy to produce, I'll purchase a Britta and use a glass.

What are you going to do?

AT THE KITCHEN TABLE

Canadian Oxford Dictionary.

HOLIDAY- In Old English the word we know as "holy" was halig, pronounced 'hally.'

A Saints Day or Church Festival was therefore a 'hally day' or 'holy day.' In the Middle Ages holy was pronounced holly so for some time we had both halliday and holiday but by about 1500 holiday won out. We still hear the variation in the way some people say Halloween and others Holloween and halliday survives in the family name Halliday which was originally given to people born on a holy day.

REINDEER- In old Norse 'rein' was the name of a particular type of deer, what we would call a caribou. So if rein already meant deer doesn't 'reindeer' mean deer deer. No, in those days deer simply meant 'animal' so reindeer might translate as "caribou animal."

CHOCOLATE- Chocolate came to England from Spain at the beginning of the 1600s, but the Spanish found it in Mexico a century earlier and under strict orders from the King had kept it secret for all that time.

The Mayas, Toltecs and Aztecs had used chocolate as a ceremonial brew and prized it so highly that the beans were used as currency. They called it chocolatl which may have been a combination of the Maya word for hot 'chocol' and the Aztec word for water, 'atl.' An active ingredient in chocolate is 'theobromine' this sounds terribly scientific, but it actually comes from a Swedish botanist who was classifying the plant system and being a chocolate lover called it "theobroma" from the Greek 'theo' meaning god and 'broma' meaning food; the food of the gods.

TINSEL- Tinsel also comes from the French. It began as etincel, meaning 'spark.' This came from the Latin 'scintilla.' In the early 1500s "tinsel "was a kind of fabric interwoven with metallic thread or decorated with spangles. By about 1600 the word was being used for metallic material used in cheap and showy or gaudy stage costumes. As a word for a Christmas tree decoration it dates only from the 20th Century.

Mandarin Oranges are probably called that in reference to the yellow/orange robes worn by Chinese officials.

Eggnog was originally heated beer or wine with an egg beaten into it and served in a noggin. (a small drinking vessel)

Mincemeat really did have minced meat in it, ground meat, fish, or liver and pudding in the very old days was blood sausage or black pudding.

Now I suppose I have no more excuses left so I will have to take down the Christmas cards and pack away the last of the decorations. This year's Christmas season is officially over.

PONDERINGS OF THE HEART

Grandchildren again!

BY MARGARET FRADLEY
For the Review

Many of you seem to enjoy my writing about some of the antics of our grandchildren and they are a treasure chest for "ponderings".

Our youngest grandchildren are now six and four. One morning as we were at the lake together, Papa said he had a chore for each of them to do for him.

Kendrick, 6, would help bring firewood from the back of the firepit and little Shaylynn was to sweep off the deck. Both agreed immediately.

The younger began in earnest to sweep, even trying to get behind the wood box. It was sweet to observe her endeavor to please Papa.

Their little tasks finished, little Shaylynn came to me, looking very serious, and said, "You know Mamma, that Papa asked me to sweep off the deck for him and I want you to know that when you have a chore for me to do, I want to do one for you too."

That really touched my heart.

It is little wonder that Jesus said "to come as a little child" with their unconditional love, enthusiasm, innocence and just wanting to please.

YOUR LETTERS

Stop Animal Cruelty Petition comes to close

I would like to thank all the wonderful animal loving individuals who have taken the time to participate in my petition. Your support and help have made this a great success. To date, I have personally received back 61,555 signatures, with more coming daily.

It is very unfortunate I will not be able to give my supporters an accurate tally of signatures collected for my "Stop Animal Cruelty Petition". It has recently come to my attention a few unnamed individuals have chosen to collect my petition signature sheets, falsely claiming they are my team members. These individuals have chosen, to my knowledge, to collect signature sheets in the Medicine Hat and

Fort MacLeod areas and send them directly to the House of Commons in Ottawa. This does concern me a great deal, as any research I have done in regards to presenting a petition to the House of Commons requires a Member of Parliament present the petition in question. To my knowledge, approximately 20,000 signatures have been collected by these individuals. I truly hope they have done their research and do have an MP who has agreed to present my petition sheets they have collected, to the House of Commons. If not, I'm worried those signatures won't be accepted, which would be a horrible shame as those who signed the sheets in question will not have the chance to be heard.

On a more positive note, I am currently working with my team, planning a gathering of fellow animal lovers in Didsbury so we are able to peacefully show our support and wishes in regards to having changes made to Canada's Animal Welfare Laws. As well as pay much deserved respect to Daisy Duke and all other animals having suffered unnecessary abuse.

Our MP, Myron Thompson will accept the completed petition at Krieb's Vet Clinic on Saturday, Jan. 23 at 2 p.m.

Hope to see you there.

YOUR LETTERS

Christmas blessings

Here's to the generosity of Didsbury and area residents towards the Christmas Blessings Thrift Store. The quality and amount of donated items was a blessing to see. Working as a volunteer in the store was both a privilege and a blessing. I thank Ev Peters for allowing me the opportunity to manage the store as an outreach of the Household Goods Thrift Store, and to Sylvia Derksen for her support as well. Both of them do a commendable job of sorting and managing all the goods that are donated.

A thank you also goes to Dale Peters and staff at ReMax Mountain Aire Realty for making the store space available for the Christmas Blessings Thrift Store. Along with individual donations there were donations from a number of local businesses. It's another reason to support our local businesses, who continue to demonstrate community spirit through their support of many worthy causes besides the local economy.

Then there are the people – so many wonderful people who stopped in to shop. What a delight to share in getting to know so many wonderful folk – another way the store blessed me personally. Thanks to all those who volunteered to do shifts: Sandy Beazley, Wes Field, Lindsey Dietz, Linda Johnson and Esther Anderson. Most of all I would like to thank my husband Rod who helped in many ways, as well as having to eat peanut butter buns for seven weeks – now that's support!

The whole experience was a great deal of fun and again I thank everyone who donated, shopped and helped to make this year's efforts a success and another blessing is yet to come when proceeds are given to charities. (The final designated amount and charities will be announced once all the accounting is completed.) I count it a blessing to have been placed in such a terrific community.

2006 tax reflection

Another year is past and we reflect on what our experiences have brought us and how these will shape our New Year. As I reflect, my Town of Didsbury water, sewage, and garbage bill catches my eye.

I notice the sewage portion and how I have paid twice as much in 2006 as I did in 2005. I don't recall there being a sewage cost crisis in Didsbury in recent years but I do recall other cost/pay-out crises in other areas of local politics; am I paying for other people's mistakes?

I have spoken with Town employees asking for history and explanation on the matter and was told that we are now charged 85 per cent of our water consumption for sewage. Because others don't use as much water they will save on this newer system but the majority of families, like mine (2 adults, 2 children), will be paying double to quadruple cost with the newer system. So I ask if this newer system will be reviewed so we can give feedback and have all the information on how much extra money they received this year over previous years for sewage, I am told that it was reviewed before they brought the newer system in. Although that makes no sense to me, I feel powerless to do anything about it.

So I will carry on with my disgruntled thoughts every time I water a plant, put water in my humidifier, watch the kids play in the sprinkler, because this is being charged to my sewage bill, and just hope that this money is being put to good use (like the yearly upgrades to the storm drain system, a.k.a 20th Ave. in front of the hospital that I hydroplane through every rain).

Don't get me started on what our extra cost could be for having our garbage collected half as much and the green bins coming to town to collect "twigs up to about the size of your little finger" or about yet another Town of Didsbury tax hike while Town of Carstairs is cutting their tax.

THUNDERING PAST – The Mountain View Colts slip one past the Airdrie Thunder's netminder Saturday to take the game 5-4. The Colts slid into first place in the central division just one day earlier, after defeating Three Hills 3-2.

Colts take top spot in Central division

BY BARRY WILLIAMS
Didsbury Review

With a 3-2 victory over the Three Hills Thrashers on Friday Jan. 5, the Mountain View Colts have overtaken first place in the Central Division of the Heritage Junior B Hockey League.

Playing in Three Hills, the game was a goal-tenders' battle as the two masked men, Kris Jackson and Coulter Haugen stymied the opposition sharpshooters with heart-stopping saves.

Haugen was the busiest goalie of the two, turning aside 25 shots, with Jackson finishing the game with 22 saves.

Jeff Clazie dented the twine for a pair of goals in the first period to give the Colts a 2-0 lead after 20 minutes of play.

In the middle stanza, the Thrashers evened the score at 2-2 as Kevin Koustrup blinked the red light on the power play, while Joe Shaw notched an even-strength goal late in the period.

With just three minutes remaining in the game, Kobie Freeman dented the twine to give the Colts the 3-2 victory.

In 25 games, the Colts have chalked up 35 points. With a .700 winning percentage, the Colts have won 17 games and lost just 7 games. They have also tied a single game.

Despite being a gifted offensive team, not one player is within the top 10 in league scoring. Offensively they have accumulated 121 goals and are averaging 4.48 goals per game. Included in their offensive statistics are 32 power play goals and 4 short-handed markers.

Offensively, Mike Arnold is the leading scorer with 22 goals and 14 assists for 36 points. Jeff Clazie has recorded 33 points with 15 goals and 18 assists. Meanwhile, Ian Brander has dented the twine 16 times and added 16 assists for 32 points.

Defensively they have allowed just 80 goals against for a stingy 3.20 goals against average.

Jackson has posted remarkable numbers in his second season between the pipes for the Colts, with a 2.82 goals against average. In 11 games he is the third best netminder in the league. He has a winning record with 9 wins against a couple of defeats and boasts a .900 save percentage.

In the Central Division standings, the Colts have recorded 17 wins, lost 7 games and tied one game for 35 points. They have a three point lead on the Airdrie Thunder who have 32 points on 15 wins, 8 defeats and a couple of ties for 32 points.

In third place are the Cochrane Generals with 28 points. Claiming fourth spot are the Three Hills Thrashers with 20 points. Holding down fifth place are the Banff Academy Bears with 14 points.

This week, the Colts have a pair of home games. On Sat. Jan. 13 they will entertain the Southern Express and on Sunday, Jan. 14 they host the Red Deer Vipers.

Meet Didsbury Minor Hockey Pee Wee Tier 5 Team

The Pee Wee team this season is a very small team with only 13 players (11 players and 2 goalies), but we are a feisty bunch and have tons of heart.

We are coached by Bruce Robertson, Danny Miller, Jim Smith and Chris Reister, and our Manager is Tracy Smith.

We started off in Tier 4 and struggled, so at re-alignment we were moved to Tier 5. This tier is better suited for us and we are competitive with the other teams. The teams we play in Tier 5 are Strathmore, Okotoks, Crossfield, Chestermere and Siksa. We are at three wins and two losses to date.

We will play in our first tournament of the season in Standard on the January 19th weekend.

Introducing the Pee Wee Tier 5 Ramblers: Jay Gole (F), Tony Gole (D), Dylan Wallace (Goalie), Sawyer Topping (F), Maija Lappala (F), Daniel Graf (D), Jacob Strautman (F), Nathan Groot (Goalie), Connor Hanson (F), Matthew Whidden (D), Austin Reister (F), Tylor Coates

(F), and Travis Smith (D).

The team has been playing very well and we are hoping to make into playoffs. Go Pee Wees go!!!

Come check out minor hockey action this weekend: Saturday Didsbury Atom vs Cremona at 12:30 p.m., PeeWee vs Crossfield at 2:30 p.m. and Midget vs Drumheller at 5 p.m. On Sunday the Bantam team will play against Cochrane at 9:15 a.m., and the Midgets will face Nanton at noon. The Novice team will be playing in a tournament in Olds this weekend.

CHIP OFF THE OL' TREE - Gerard Fournier of For Trees chips a Christmas tree at the public works building on Saturday. More than 100 people brought their trees in to be recycled and donated food for the Mountain View Food Bank.

Didsbury boosts food bank

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

Without the generosity of Didsbury residents, the regional food bank might be in a lot of trouble.

Didsbury is a major contributor to the Mountain View Food bank every year, and often when the organization needs it the most.

"The Didsbury Lions put on a big food drive in September so that's a big help," said food bank director

Pat Graham.

Countywide, most food and cash donations are made in the month leading up to Christmas when people are most aware of the need.

But once Christmas is over, that generosity tends to fade out.

"Starting at about Thanksgiving, people are very, very aware of the need and then they sort of forget about us," said Graham.

"But we're there all year round."

That's why the Lions started their September food drive.

And it's the reason they teamed up with For Trees for the Christmas Tree Chip-off last Saturday to give the food bank a boost in January.

Anyone who wanted their tree recycled simply had to drop it off beside the Town shop along with a non-perishable food item.

"We thought right after Christmas is a time when (the Food Bank's) supplies are depleted," said For Trees owner Gerard Fournier

Rosebud Health Foundation: enhancing health-care delivery

There is a growing gap between the demand for health-care services and facilities and the resources our hospitals can generate to both sustain existing operations and meet expanding needs.

Through the Rosebud Health Foundation, generous and forward-thinking individuals and organizations can play a vital role in bridging that gap.

The Foundation was formed by a group of volunteers in 1996 and has managed to raise over half a million dollars to fund equipment and programs that do not fall within the priority criteria of the Regional Health Authority.

The Foundation ensures that gifts and bequests from grateful health-care recipients and memorials are used in our local area for equipment and programs that enhance health-care delivery.

The sole aim of the Foundation is to develop relationships and resources to support and improve the health care with special emphasis on Wellness.

The Rosebud Health Foundation Board of Directors is comprised of volunteers from within the Didsbury Hospital District that serves Didsbury, Carstairs, Cremona, Crossfield and Water Valley.

The Board's primary responsibilities are fundraising, advocacy and governance within a charitable organization.

The Foundation is always seeking energetic, community-minded volunteers who want to help improve the wellness of the population as well as provide greater comfort for those in need, by providing state-of-the-art equipment for those nearing life's end.

Great things can be achieved by working together in our district.

Anyone interested in receiving more information is invited to attend the next annual meeting, Jan. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the education room of the Didsbury Hospital.

HEESE

John Arthur Heese was born December 11, 1940 in Central Butte, Saskatchewan to the late Alexander and Helen Heese. John & Lois finally resided in Didsbury to be close to their children. At the age of 66 after a courageous battle with cancer, he took God's hand December 20, 2006 with his family at his side. He is survived by his wife Lois of 40 years; daughters Brenda, Lynda (Russ); son Greg (Natalie); grandchildren Candace, Cory, Darcie, Logan and Jordan; brothers Henry (Judy) and Edwin (Donna) as well as numerous other relatives and friends. The family would like to thank the Didsbury Hospital staff. Funeral services were held on Wednesday December 27, 2006 at the Mountain View Evangelical Missionary Church, Didsbury with Pastor John Lucas and Harold Hunter officiating. Interment followed in the Didsbury Cemetery. Memorial donations may be made directly to the Tom Baker Cancer Centre. As a tribute to John Heese, a tree will be planted in the Heartland Tree Memorial Park, Olds. Heartland Funeral Services Ltd., Olds entrusted with arrangements. 403-507-8610
